The legal education journal

The De Rebus journal has been in existence for 66 years. The first issue of the journal was published in 1956 under the title De Rebus Procuratoris (about the affairs of attorneys). Since its first issue, the journal has evolved with the times in terms of the topics covered and the way in which it is published.

About the LPC

The Legal Practice Council (LPC) has been in existence since 2018, yet there are still legal practitioners who do not know its function or the difference between the LPC and the Law Society of South Africa (LSSA). This has led to some confusion in the profession to the extent that legal practitioners want to submit their audit documents to the LSSA instead of the LPC.

Build the LSSA you want

Since the enactment of the Legal Practice Act 28 of 2014 (LPA), the Law Society of South Africa (LSSA) has been positioning itself as a member interest organisation with a new mandate of serving attorneys and candidate attorneys. Since 29 October 2018, the mission of the LSSA has been to represent the attorneys' profession, safeguard the rule of law via the efficient and fair administration of justice, while the LSSA's vision has been to empower attorneys so that they can provide excellent legal services to the community in an ethical, professional, considerate, and competent manner.
